Aims

The aims of relationships, sex and health education (RSHE) at Livingstone Academy are to:

- Develop students' sense of self-worth, self-respect and teach students the importance of self-care:
  - Create a positive culture around issues of sexuality and relationships.
  - Provide students with reliable information so they can make informed decisions about their health and bodies.
  - Prepare students for puberty, and give them an understanding of sexual development and the importance of health and hygiene.
  - Teach students the correct vocabulary to describe themselves and their bodies.
- Prepare students to navigate the opportunities, risks and challenges in their lives in a healthy, happy and safe way:
  - Teach students resilience and perseverance strategies.
  - Develop students' self-confidence.
- Develop students' interpersonal attributes such as kindness, empathy, tolerance and integrity:
  - Create a positive culture around working together.
  - Deal with misconceptions, myths and misunderstandings.
- Safeguard students:
  - Provide a framework in which sensitive discussions can take place.
  - Teach students how to ask for support in times of need.
- Develop 21st century skills such as critical thinking and digital literacy:
  - Teach students how to operate, act and communicate safely on and offline.
  - Teach students how to consume and share information safely on and offline.

Definition

RSHE stands for Relationship, Sex and Health Education. It is about the emotional, social and cultural development of students, and involves learning about relationships, sexual health, sexuality, healthy lifestyles, diversity and personal identity in a safe environment where students can discuss their thoughts and receive age appropriate reliable guidance. RSHE involves a combination of sharing information, and exploring issues and values. RSHE is not about the promotion of sexual activity, indeed evidence shows that the provision of well taught, effective RSHE reduces the likelihood of young people engaging in risky behaviours (See A curriculum for life: the case for statutory PSHE education).

Statutory requirements

Primary Academy

The Relationships Education, RSE, and Health Education (England) Regulations 2019 have made Relationships Education compulsory in all primary schools. Sex Education is not compulsory in primary schools and the content set out in this guidance therefore focuses on Relationships Education. (DfE RSE Guidance, 2019).

As a primary Academy, we must provide relationships education to all students as per section 34 of the Students and Social Work Act 2017.

However, we are not required to provide sex education but we do need to teach the elements of sex education contained in the science curriculum.

In teaching RSHE, we must have regard to guidance issued by the Secretary of State as outlined in section 403 of the Education Act 1996.

Secondary Academy

As a secondary Academy, we must provide RSE to all students as per section 34 of the Students and Social work act 2017.

In teaching RSE, we are required by our funding agreements to have regard to guidance issued by the secretary of state as outlined in section 403 of the Education Act 1996.

At our Academy we teach RSHE as set out in this policy.

Policy development

This policy will be finalised following further development with staff, students and parents once the Academy has opened. The consultation and policy development process will follow the following steps:

1. Review – Wellness lead will pull together relevant information including relevant national and local guidance.
2. Staff consultation – all school staff will be given the opportunity to look at the policy and make recommendations before it is finalised.
3. Parent/stakeholder consultation – parents/carers and any interested parties will be invited to attend a meeting about the policy.

4. Student consultation – we will investigate what exactly students want and need from their RSHE.
5. Ratification – once amendments are made, the policy will be shared with governors and ratified.

Curriculum

Our curriculum is set out as per Appendix 1 but we may need to adapt it as and when necessary. Before the policy is finalised, the policy will undergo consultation with parents, students and staff, taking into account the age, needs and feelings of students. If students ask questions outside the scope of this policy, teachers will respond in an appropriate manner so that students are fully informed and don't seek answers online.

For more information about our curriculum, see our curriculum map in Appendix 1.

Delivery of RSHE

The RSHE curriculum is part of the wider PSHE curriculum which has been mapped against the 6 core components of the Academy's Wellness Curriculum, which is developed by Aspirations Academy Trust and then adapted to meet the contextual needs of The Livingstone Academy students.

RSHE is delivered through the physical, emotional and interpersonal components of the Wellness Curriculum in a combination of the following ways throughout the school day and year:

- Deep Learning Sessions/ Days/ Workshops in Assessment, Personal and Performance weeks.
- School daily routines, including 'TIP' time (Thought of the Day, Information, Portfolio) with mentors.
- Assemblies and whole school events related to a range of global, national, local and topical campaigns.
- Integrated into Applied Transdiscipline assignments where students research and draw on a range of disciplines over a period of 5 to 6 weeks to answer a provoking question, tackle a relevant issue or solve a real-world problem.
- Some biological and health-focused aspects of the RSHE curriculum are taught within the physical education and science curriculum.
- Further opportunities for embedding the RSHE curriculum into the wider curriculum are identified by teachers in weekly collaborative planning sessions, using the RSHE curriculum map as guidance for topic and theme coverage.
- Teachers use collaborative planning sessions to reflect on any critical areas of the RSHE curriculum they may need to address in response to the immediate and contextual needs of their students.

Lessons are taught by teachers and occasionally by external agencies such as school nurses or youth workers.

RSHE focuses on giving young people the information they need to help them develop healthy, nurturing relationships of all kinds, including:

- Families.
- Respectful relationships, including friendships.
- Online and media.
- Being safe.
- Intimate and sexual relationships, including sexual health.

For more information about our RSHE curriculum, see Appendices 1 and 2.

These areas of learning are taught within the context of family life taking care to ensure that there is no stigmatisation of students based on their home circumstances (families can include single parent families, LGBT parents, families headed by grandparents, adoptive parents, foster parents/carers amongst other structures) along with reflecting sensitively that some students may have a different structure of support around them (for example: looked after students or young carers).

The delivery of RSHE will be monitored just like any other subject, for example through:

- Learning walks.
- Book scrutiny.
- Data analysis.
- Student voice.
- Staff consultations.
- Ongoing CPD.

Students' development in RSHE is monitored by class teachers termly through summative data. Students should be given feedback on their progress and be able to articulate their understanding of key aspects of the curriculum.

Inclusion

All students have a right to age appropriate RSHE regardless of faith, gender, sexual orientation, race or disability. High quality teaching that is differentiated and personalised is the starting point to ensure accessibility for all of our students.

The Equality Act of 2010 protects students, young people and adults against discrimination, harassment and victimisation in relation to education.

Wellness Leads as well as the Safeguarding Leads both have a duty of care to ensure that all staff delivering RSHE are familiar with the Safeguarding Policy and understand the necessary protocol should a safeguarding issue arise. Furthermore, the backgrounds of all students are taken into account when planning and teaching, so that the topics are sensitive to the needs of our students and families.

Roles and responsibilities

Governance

The Board of Trustees for Aspirations delegates responsibility to local Regional Boards (RB). The RB will approve the Wellness Curriculum and the RSHE Policy. This policy will be reviewed by the Wellness Lead annually. At every review, the policy will be approved by the RB.

The Executive Director of Learning

The Executive Director of Learning is responsible for ensuring that RSHE is taught consistently across the school, and for managing requests to withdraw students from non-statutory components of RSHE (see 'parents' right to withdraw')

Staff

Staff are responsible for:

- Delivering RSHE in a sensitive way.
- Modelling positive attitudes to RSHE.
- Monitoring progress.
- Responding to the needs of individual students.
- Responding appropriately to students whose parents wish them to be withdrawn from the non-statutory components of RSHE.

It is important that RSHE is taught by staff trained and eager to teach RSHE just like any other subject. If staff have concerns about teaching RSHE they should speak to their line manager, but it is an expectation that all staff will promote the values and ethos of the curriculum.

Students

Students are expected to engage fully in RSHE and, when discussing issues related to RSHE, treat others with respect and sensitivity.

Parents' right to withdraw

Parents have the right to withdraw their students from the non-statutory components of sex education within RSE up to and until 3 terms before the student turns 16. After this point, if the student wishes to receive sex education rather than being withdrawn, the Academy will arrange this. Requests for withdrawal should be put in writing using the form found in Appendix 3 of this policy and addressed to the Executive Director of Learning.

A copy of withdrawal requests will be placed in the student's educational record. The Executive Director of Learning will discuss the request with parents and take appropriate action.

Alternative work will be given to students who are withdrawn from sex education.

Training

Staff delivering RSHE are trained on the delivery of RSHE as part of their induction and it is included in our continuing professional development calendar.

Links to other policies

The RSHE policy links to the Wellness Curriculum which has been developed by the Aspirations Academies Trust to help promote positive mental health and emotional well-being in our students and to teach our students self-responsibility for their behaviour and their lifestyle choices.

The Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy is also relevant to this policy.

Monitoring arrangements

The delivery of RSHE is monitored by the Wellness Lead just like any other subject through the usual Academy monitoring systems.

Students' development in RSHE is monitored by class teachers as part of our internal assessment systems.

This policy will be reviewed by the Wellness Lead annually.

Appendices

Appendix 1: Curriculum map

The RSHE curriculum is part of the wider PSHE curriculum which has been mapped against the 6 core components of the Aspirations Academies Trust's Wellness Curriculum. The elements shown in the tables below refer to the 4 components of the Wellness Curriculum which cover the RSHE curriculum.

EMOTIONAL	RESPECTFUL RELATIONSHIPS

WELLNESS

- The importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs.
- Practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships.
- The conventions of courtesy and manners.
- The importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness.
- That in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.
- About different types of bullying (including cyberbullying), the impact of bullying, responsibilities of bystanders (primarily reporting bullying to an adult) and how to get help.
- What a stereotype is, and how stereotypes can be unfair, negative or destructive.
- The importance of permission-seeking and giving in relationships with friends, peers and adults.

FAMILIES

- Families are important for students growing up because they can give love, security and stability.
- The characteristics of healthy family life, commitment to each other, including in times of difficulty, protection and care for students and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other's lives.
- That others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other students' families are also characterised by love and care.
- How important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends.
- The characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties.
- That healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded.
- That most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right.
- How to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed.
- The importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs.

- Practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships.
- The conventions of courtesy and manners.
- The importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness.
- That in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.
- That people sometimes behave differently online, including by pretending to be someone they are not.
- That the same principles apply to online relationships as to face-to-face relationships, including the importance of respect for others online including when we are anonymous.
- The rules and principles for keeping safe online, how to recognise risks, harmful content and contact, and how to report them.
- How to critically consider their online friendships and sources of information including awareness of the risks associated with people they have never met.
- How information and data is shared and used online.
- What sorts of boundaries are appropriate in friendships with peers and others (including in a digital context).
- About the concept of privacy and the implications of it for both students and adults; including that it is not always right to keep secrets if they relate to being safe.
- That each person's body belongs to them, and the differences between appropriate and inappropriate or unsafe physical, and other, contact.
- How to respond safely and appropriately to adults they may encounter (in all contexts, including online) whom they do not know.
- How to recognise and report feelings of being unsafe or feeling bad about any adult.
- How to ask for advice or help for themselves or others, and to keep trying until they are heard.
- How to report concerns or abuse, and the vocabulary and confidence needed to do so.
- Where to get advice e.g. family, school and/or other sources.

CARING FRIENDSHIPS

- How important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends.
- The characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties.
- That healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded.
- That most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right.
