Promoting positive Self-Regulation strategies at home	Self-regulation is a really important area of learning for Primary children. Have a look at this following guide, written by Hannah Baker, Co-CEO at Partnership for Children, exploring the concept of self-regulation and its importance. It explains: the science behind self-regulation within the context of key developmental milestones for children in this age range; how to develop strategies and techniques for promoting self-regulation and the vital role that you as teachers at home of adult-led play can have in modelling and guiding self-regulatory skills (with plenty of example activities). Self-Regulation Booklet
